

ROBINSON HEADED FOR HOPE

Farmers Week Off To Good Start With Large Attendance

Registrations From Three States the Largest in History

SPLENDID PROGRAM Pageant With More Than 1000 to Be Presented During Week

FAYETTEVILLE, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The Twelfth Annual Farmers Week opened at the University of Arkansas today with nearly 6,000 farmers and their families, from three states, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, in attendance.

Nearly $2,000 in prizes will be awarded to the boys and girls. Prizes include trips to every large agricultural or livestock event to be held in the country this year. Awards will be made in events ranging from horseback riding to folk singing and washing and ironing contest for women.

Many outstanding speakers have been selected to appear on the program. Included on the speakers list are: C. A. Cobb, editor of the Southern Ruralist, Atlanta, Ga.; Earl W. Hodges, director of public relations and president of the International association of Lions; W. C. Lasseter, managing editor of Progressive Farmer, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. Marietta Eichelberger, American Red Cross, St. Louis; F. P. Claxton, former federal commissioner of education, Knoxville, Tenn.; James Speed, editor, Southern Agriculturist, Louisville, Ky.; Miss Amy Kelly, state home demonstration leader, Manhattan, Kan.; Paul B. Naylor, state extension lecturer, U. of Missouri; G. H. Collingwood, director of American Forestry Service, Washington, D. C.

A large number of state speakers will also appear on the program: Gov. Harvey Parnell; George N. Cade, Director of the University Training School; Mrs. C. B. Davis and Geo. Vaughan, school of law, university; and a number of other prominent university and state speakers will feature the program.

Probably the largest recreational feature of the entire week will be the huge pageant, with a cast of more than 1,000 Little club boys and girls of the state. The play "The Ten Commandments of Agriculture" has been written and will be directed by Miss Anne Stark Foster, Little Rock.

Youthful Robber Wounded, Caught

Shot By Officers After Looting Eldorado Drug Store

EL DORADO, Aug. 5.—Theo Orr, aged 24, of Crossett, is in a local hospital with an injured foot following an attempt to flee after robbing the Youth Side pharmacy here of $400 Monday night. His condition is not considered serious.

Local officers were tipped off that a robbery was in progress and Night Chief W. W. Cross and Patrolman M. B. Southall went to the store. As they approached the front door Orr ran out the rear. Southall fired six shots at Orr but did not realize he had wounded him.

A short time after the officers had returned to headquarters they were informed by a woman that a wounded man had crawled under her house. He was captured by the officers and the $400 found on his person.

A Ford car said to have been used by Orr was found to have been stolen from Ruston, La. In the back seat of the car was found a quantity of dry goods said to have been stolen at Crossett.

The case has been turned over to Sheriff John W. Harman. Orr knocked the combination off the drug store safe to obtain the money. An armed guard is maintained over Orr at the hospital to prevent his escape.

H. D. Segler Enters Insurance Business

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Segler formerly of Hope and Washington reestablished their residence in Hope yesterday. For the past three years Mr. Segler has been principal of the high school at Prescott.

When previously located in Hope Mr. Segler was engaged in the real estate and insurance business and has returned here to reenter the insurance business.

Besides a line of old line life insurance Mr. Segler is territory manager for the Lone Star Matrimonial Mutual association which writes a very attractive marriage endorsement contract which matures an attractive benefit on the date of marriage.

Australia, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela and Mexico have created federal districts for their capitals.

Use Water Sparingly During Festival Day

Owing to the extraordinary demand made upon the city water works during Festival day, Hope householders are asked to be sparing of the water supply that day. The Hope Water & Light company has an ample water supply announced today that while the mere fact of a one-day crowd ranging from five to six times the city's population, is sufficient to cause a shortage unless great care is taken by local citizens, particularly in the sprinkling of lawns and dirt streets, which practice should be discontinued for that one day, the announcement said.

Seeking To Stop Bridge Litigation

Justin Mathews Confers With Garland Officials and Others

TEXARKANA, Aug. 5.—Justin Mathews of the state highway commission, assistant Engineer Mitchell of Little Rock, and District Engineer Stanford of Hope arrived here Monday and after being joined by a committee from the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce, went to Garland City, where a conference was held with the mayor and council of that town relative to the litigation concerning approaches to the new bridge across Red river at that place.

Garland City officials recently obtained a court injunction to restrain the Highway Department from using certain streets in building approaches to the bridge. The party returned here soon after noon and the visitors had lunch with Chamber of Commerce officials, after which Mathews returned to Little Rock.

It was announced that as a result of the visit to Garland City all troubles there probably will be settled amicably within the next two or three days.

Blytheville Has Disastrous Fire

Garage and Fifteen New Automobiles Are Destroyed

BLYTHERVILLE, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed a garage and fifteen new automobiles.

W. I. Denton, owner said that the loss would probably amount to $75,000.

The building was partially insured, it was learned.

State Candidates Work Frantically In Plea For Votes

Primary Election To Be Held One Week From Today

ALL ARE CONFIDENT All Candidates Acclaim Success For Themselves in Their Campaigns

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—One week from today Arkansas will experience that silence which comes between the close of an election campaign and the count of the ballots.

The thousands of voters over the entire state who for several weeks have listened to the various speeches, charges and counter charges of the candidates from United States senator down then will register their preference.

As the biennial state primary approaches the success of all candidates is being predicted by campaign managers in the various headquarters. However, it is inevitable that only a few will be able to attain their goal.

The last full week of campaigning began Monday morning with renewed energy and increased activity among the candidates. Senator Joe T. Robinson spoke in Mena last night. Duke Frederick, city attorney, in an introductory made a prediction that Robinson would be nominated the Democratic nominee for President in 1932.

In a radio address made here last night Charles H. Brown, former governor of Arkansas, referred to Senator Robinson as "the next presidential nominee of the Democratic party."

Meanwhile Tom W. Campbell of Little Rock, spoke at Pine Bluff. He urged Senator Robinson's promise, of aid to the farmers in the drought stricken areas of the country. He referred to it as a "death bed" promise to gain the sympathy of the farmer. He said Robinson has been in Washington 28 years and has done nothing for the farmers of Arkansas.

Brooks Hays, speaking in the interest of his campaign for Governor of Arkansas, assailed John S. Parks, of the state highway commission. "Parks has fought me in this campaign, but has been fair to me in his news columns. Parks is editor of the Southwest American and Times-Record of Ft. Smith," Hays said.

Judge John C. Sheffield, speaking in Fordyce and Camden assailed both Hays and Parnell, claiming that they had not spent over $50,000 in the present campaign for advertising purposes alone.

Governor Parnell at Nashville and Dierks defended the Hall income tax issue. He referred to it as the prime issue in the campaign. He recounted his work in the highway department. His efforts to reduce the property tax. The work in the future will be directed along the lines of efficiency.

Spark From Pipe Takes Two Lives

Man and Wife Found Dead in Their Home After Fire

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 5.—(AP)—A spark from a pipe which he was smoking when he went to bed is responsible for the death of Joseph Davis, 58 and his wife Allie 53, whose charred bodies were found on the springs of a burned bed in their home. The aged couple lived in the town of Kiefer, 30 miles east of here.

After talking to neighbors about the habits of the couple the idea of foul play was given up by coroner Joseph B. Fanning, who finally decided that an inquest was not necessary.

Robinson Urged For Presidency

Mena Crowd Acclaims the Senator as Standard Bearer

MENA, Aug. 5.—Western Arkansas Democrats who assembled in Mena Monday night approved the proposal that Joe T. Robinson be nominated by the Democrats for president in 1932. City Attorney Duke Frederick made the suggestion. A crowd estimated at 1,200 noisily acclaimed the idea.

Senator Robinson spoke at Junsen park. He discussed chiefly the London Naval Conference, and the necessity of relief for farmers due to drought and industrial conditions. He also spoke on veterans relief, which he helped pass two years ago.

Senator Robinson came to Mena from DeQueen, accompanied by Mrs. Robinson. They were guests at an informal reception at the Antlers hotel before the park meeting.

Publicity Closes For 1930 Melon Festival

Hempstead County Stories and Pictures Reach 30 Arkansas Papers of 103,000 Total Circulation—N. E. A. Service Broadcasts Festival Story All Over U. S. A. and Abroad

The advance publicity on the fifth annual Watermelon Festival completed last week-end, has set a new record for state and nation-wide publicity in behalf of this Hempstead county event.

For the first time in the history of Hope Watermelon Festivals an effort was made to reach Arkansas weekly and daily papers with pictures and stories that would invite visitors to this great event. To this end, the Festival committee authorized a moderate expenditure for picture plates and the making of "mats" for a statewide broadcast. Hope Star contributed the mechanical composition and postage covering this broadcast.

Blankets State
One hundred stories and pictures were sent out, of which the publicity committee has received returns on 30 daily and weekly editions in Arkansas, aggregating 103,075 circulation. This is exclusive of the city of Little Rock, which has the largest newspapers in the state. The Little Rock papers carried special dispatches last Sunday, with pictures of Miss Sara Louise Gentry, the 1930 Festival Queen.

Official publicity of the Festival was previously carried by both the Shreveport Times and Shreveport Journal. Through NEA Service, Cleveland, Ohio, Hope obtained a broadcast of the story of the late Edgar Lasseter and the annual Hope Watermelon Festivals, which reached 900 American newspapers, circulating to millions of subscribers from coast to coast. This story and picture was carried by the Arkansas Democrat last Sunday, and by the Memphis Press-Scimitar last week. It has already been published in papers throughout the Carolinas and Georgia, from which press clippings have come in the last few days to Hope Chamber of Commerce. NEA Service reaches Spanish papers in Central America, the Canadian press, and English newspapers in Japan and China.

List of Papers
Particular thanks are due to the Arkansas newspapers, daily and weekly, which gave Hope a warm hand in printing pictures and stories in advance of this year's Festival. Papers that have printed two or more stories and pictures since July 15 are as follows (this being the incomplete list of which the committee is certain):

Robison Co. Shows Queen's Costume

Queen Sara's Gown, Scepter and Train in Tasteful Ensemble

The complete regal attire which Queen Sara will wear in the parade and coronation service of the fifth annual Watermelon Festival here Thursday is on exhibition at the Geo. W. Robinson & Co. department store today.

The queen's gown, scepter, train, crown and accessories are tastefully arranged in one of the show-windows against a background of pastel shades, in which the watermelon colors of green and pink predominate.

Miss Sara Louise Gentry will ride in this dazzling costume on the queen's float, through the course of the parade to the Southwest Arkansas Fair Grounds. There the queen's stand has already been completed, with a ramp on one side, up which the float will be driven, so that the entire coronation service will be held on the float mounted on the elevated stand in plain view of the Festival host.

Government Will Aid Drought Areas

Survey of Territory To Be Made Within the Next Few Days

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—President Hoover announced today that no stone would be left unturned by the government in an effort to assist the sufferers in the drought stricken areas.

The seriousness of the situation, which is worse in the section east of the Mississippi river and the middle west was discussed at a meeting between President Hoover and Mr. Hyde. Resulting from this meeting a detailed survey of the area affected will be made at once by the agricultural department who will make their report next Monday at noon.

Twin Melon Put On Display Here

Freak of 1930 Season Shown By Arkansas Bank & Trust Co.

A twin melon—one of the freaks of Watermelon Festival week—is on display at the banking rooms of the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. today.

The melon was grown by Joe C. Bennett, on the R. Lee Jones place near Hope. It is virtually two melons, although joined solidly for several inches of the circumference. The pair lie lengthwise, and apparently budded that way, for while preserving the appearance of twin melons they are welded solidly into one.

This is a phenomenon that interests all melon growers, and Mr. Bennett's freak will doubtless be seen by hundreds of visitors in Hope Wednesday and Thursday. Twin watermelons are quite rare, and only one has a triple melon been recorded—which occurred last year.

John Hartsfield Is Given Hearing Here

Waives Preliminary Hearing and Bond Is Fixed At $5,000

John Hartsfield, local road worker, was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace W. G. Bright Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Hartsfield is charged with driving the automobile which ran down and killed Mrs. Lum Vines and wounded her daughter, Mrs. Woodson Duke, on the streets of this city on Saturday, July 12.

Since the afternoon of the accident Hartsfield has been kept out of town and was returned here by county officers Monday.

Hartsfield was bound over to the grand jury of the October term of court. Bond was fixed at $5,000.

Two Men Dead Are Not Identified By the Police

PATTON, U. J., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Six men are dead as the result of drinking poison alcohol at a hobo camp outside the city limits here Saturday night.

Three of the men were dead when found. The others dying in a hospital. Two of the number have not been identified.

Judge Urges Economy In All Cases in Court

STUTTGART, Aug. 5.—Economy in the administration of justice served as the theme of Judge W. J. Waggoner's charge to the grand jury and circuit court opened here this morning. He said he considers it better to let a few men escape the law than to place the burden of heavy court costs on the shoulders of the taxpayers, but asked that nothing be spared in considering important cases. There are 89 cases on the docket. No important indictments were returned.

25 Melon Cutters Required Thursday

Twenty-five melon cutters are wanted for duty at the Southwest Arkansas Fair Grounds Thursday. Volunteers should apply to George W. Robinson, general chairman of the 1930 Watermelon Festival, and the earlier the better.

Bridge Across St. Francis Is Nearing Completion

KENNETT, Mo., Aug. 5.—The approach to the Arkansas side of the Holly Island bridge, across the St. Francis river, west of Kennett, is nearing completion. The grading was finished Saturday and the bridge probably will be open to traffic in about two weeks. The approach will be constructed with gravel after it has settled.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Despite the fact that he is 77 years old, W. H. Warden, Marion, recently dug out a pine stump and cut it up into eight cords of wood. He carried the wood 40 rods to his house, estimating he walked a total of 35 miles in carrying the wood with a basket on his head.

Arkansas Senator Is Festival-Bound Here On Thursday

Last-Minute Arrangements Completed For 1930 Melon Festival

AIR CIRCUS COMING

25 Bands Will March For Float Parade

Hope and Hempstead county awaited today the coming of the crowds to the fifth annual Watermelon Festival which will begin bright and early Thursday morning.

Last-minute arrangements are complete, and at daybreak Thursday, the first automobiles crowded with visitors will come dusting into town for the most famous outdoor spectacle of the year in Arkansas.

The distinguished guest and speaker, United States Senator Joe T. Robinson, will arrive here Thursday morning.

PROCLAMATION

Washington, Arkansas, August 4th, 1930.

TO ALL WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME—GREETINGS:

WHEREAS, The Annual Watermelon Festival of Hempstead County, State of Arkansas, is to be held in Hope, Arkansas, Thursday, August 7, 1930, realizing this to be one of the greatest events in Hempstead County, this being of great importance in the marketing of the watermelon crop of Hempstead County.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, John L. Wilson, County and Probate Judge within and for the County of Hempstead, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me, do hereby declare this to be a legal holiday.

AND I HEREBY PROCLAIM and request, and direct, that all County Offices be and remain closed on August 7, 1930, in honor of the Watermelon Festival.

IN TESTIMONY, WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and seal to be affixed the County Seal of Hempstead County, Arkansas, at Washington, Arkansas, this 4th day of August, 1930.

County and Probate Judge.

Attest
FRANK MAY
County and Probate Clerk.

in, will arrive probably Thursday morning. The senator, who accepted the Hope engagement nearly three months ago has since built his campaign in Southwest Arkansas around this date. He has been speaking at Mena and DeQueen this week, and appear at Nashville at 8 o'clock tonight, and probably has a Wednesday night engagement, after which he will proceed to Hope for the Watermelon Festival.

Offices, Stores Close
Hope and Hempstead county will observe most of Thursday as a holiday. All offices in the county courthouse at Washington will be closed all day, Judge John L. Wilson publishing a proclamation to this effect in today's Star. Hope stores will close at 1 p. m., and the banks one hour earlier, at noon, in order to allow the counting of cash and closing up of the banking rooms by 1 o'clock.

Hope Star, following its usual custom, will send its Thursday edition to press late Wednesday night, city carriers making delivery before breakfast Thursday morning, and giving the office staff the entire day for work on Festival committees.

No estimate is possible of the size of the 1930 Festival crowd but this year's event has been more widely advertised than ever before; and with Senator Robinson as the speaker it is believed the crowd will equal or surpass the best previous record, established in 1928, when close to 40,000 persons are said to have attended.

Hope Chamber of Commerce has received notice that visitors will attend on mass from 20 to 25 cities and towns throughout this section, bringing as many bands. Approximately 20 bands marched in last year's parade, interspersed among 50 floats; and this year's parade will be as large or larger.

George W. Robinson, general chairman of the Festival, was informed today by W. Homer Pigg, secretary of Hope Chamber of Commerce, that the 15th Observation Squadron of Little Rock will send half a dozen airplanes to put on an air circus above the city during the day. Four American Eagle planes are also coming, as well as several ships from the Command-air factory at Little Rock.

An effort was made last week to obtain the winner of the All-American Air Derby, the Arkansas-built "Command-air ship" "Little Rocket," but the fragile racer is being guarded carefully for future events and could not be exhibited here. It is still possible, however, that the 15th squadron will bring with them the Little Rocket's pilot, Lieut. Lee Gehlbach, trying the wood with a basket to his head as his plane.

Dairying in The Ozarks

Tourists nowadays who whiz along the paved roads through the famed apple country in the vicinity of Rogers, find that the home of the big red apple is not putting all its eggs in one basket, as the old saying goes. Along with the vast expanse of apple orchards through which the highways thread like a grey ribbon the traveler sees pastures in which graze herds of Jerseys, Holsteins and other breeds of milch cows. For the farmer folks about Rogers have turned to the dairy business on a scale that in time may compete with the apple crop.

Farmers in Benton county in the vicinity of Rogers are now receiving approximately $15,000 per month from a dairy plant in Rogers, the Rogers Dairy Products company, and the industry in that section is comparatively new. Listen to a recent news item from Rogers:

"The Rogers Dairy Products company, which began operation last February, is now showing an increase daily in the amount of milk received at the plant. This month a total of 30,000 pounds of milk is being poured daily into the big vats to be reduced to powder, after the cream has been separated from the whole milk. Sixteen trucks are in operation out of Rogers to the homes of the farmers where the milk is gathered each day. The plant is paying approximately $15,000 per month to farmers, with the trade territory extending 30 miles distant."

That in a section already famed the nation over for its orchards and rustic mountain scenery—a section where tourists flock in increasing numbers as each summer rolls around—a section that some day will perhaps rival the much-advertised "land of the sky" for recreation.

What folks in the Ozarks do in the dairy business can be duplicated in many other sections of Arkansas. Of course, there are still 15 counties in the southern part of the state which still have to cope with the dreaded cattle tick. But the day will come when this pest will be exterminated and South Arkansas and other sections of the state will see a dairy development akin to that which has made famous a large section of North Mississippi.

Several months ago a group of South Arkansas farmers and business men made a five-day tour through the Mississippi dairy country—Starkville, Tupelo, Aberdeen—and found an independent farm folk who a dozen years ago were struggling along dependent upon the one staple crop—cotton. Millions of dollars have been invested in dairy herds and milk plants in Mississippi, and profits are being made for farmer and business man alike. Many a section in Arkansas would do well to take a step such as Rogers and North Mississippi did.

New Trend In American Literature

V. F. CALVERTON, editor of the Modern Quarterly, writing in August Current History, discusses the trends of the new, native American literature. With the end of the World War, says Mr. Calverton, American literature, which had hitherto been largely influenced by English, "alive with new energy, released from an old repression, confident of its own talent and seeking no other approval than its own, was able to carve out its new destiny."

Mr. Calverton goes on to explain this destiny. What our modern writers, such as Edgar Lee Masters, Vachel Lindsay, Carl Sandburg, Sinclair Lewis, Eugene O'Neill, Willa Cather, Theodore Dreiser, are doing, he says, is "to deal with the American background in their own personal way, for their revolt was individualistic and not social in motivation."

"Intent upon the American scene at it really was, these writers, despite all their individualistic conflicts in theory and technique, at once renounced the declaration of Howells that 'the more smiling aspects of life are the more American.' Instead they saw something happening in America that was as far removed from 'the smiling aspects of life' as is a stretch of countryside from a coastline of skyscrapers. The individual was being divorced from itself, standardized, destroyed in its initiative and genius."

"Hence the individualistic aspect of this revolt of the literati, this valiant protest against those forces in our life that were sacrificing the individual to the machine. It is just this standardization and commercialization that Sinclair Lewis has satirized, Upton Sinclair has denounced and Theodore Dreiser has loathed."—Hot Springs News Era.

Flier Saves Self in Jump From Plane

Craft Crashed in Yard Near Where Two Small Children Played

WARWICK, R. I., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Charles H. S. Weaver, 24, president of a flying field here, joined the Caterpillar Club Sunday when he took to his parachute after a wing of his plane was torn away.

The plane crashed into the yard of Lemmy Parlin, only 10 feet from where Palin's two year old twins were playing.

Weaver took up the craft for a test flight and had put it through various evolutions for nearly three hours before the accident. When he sent it into a power dive, one wing buckled and was sheared from the plane.

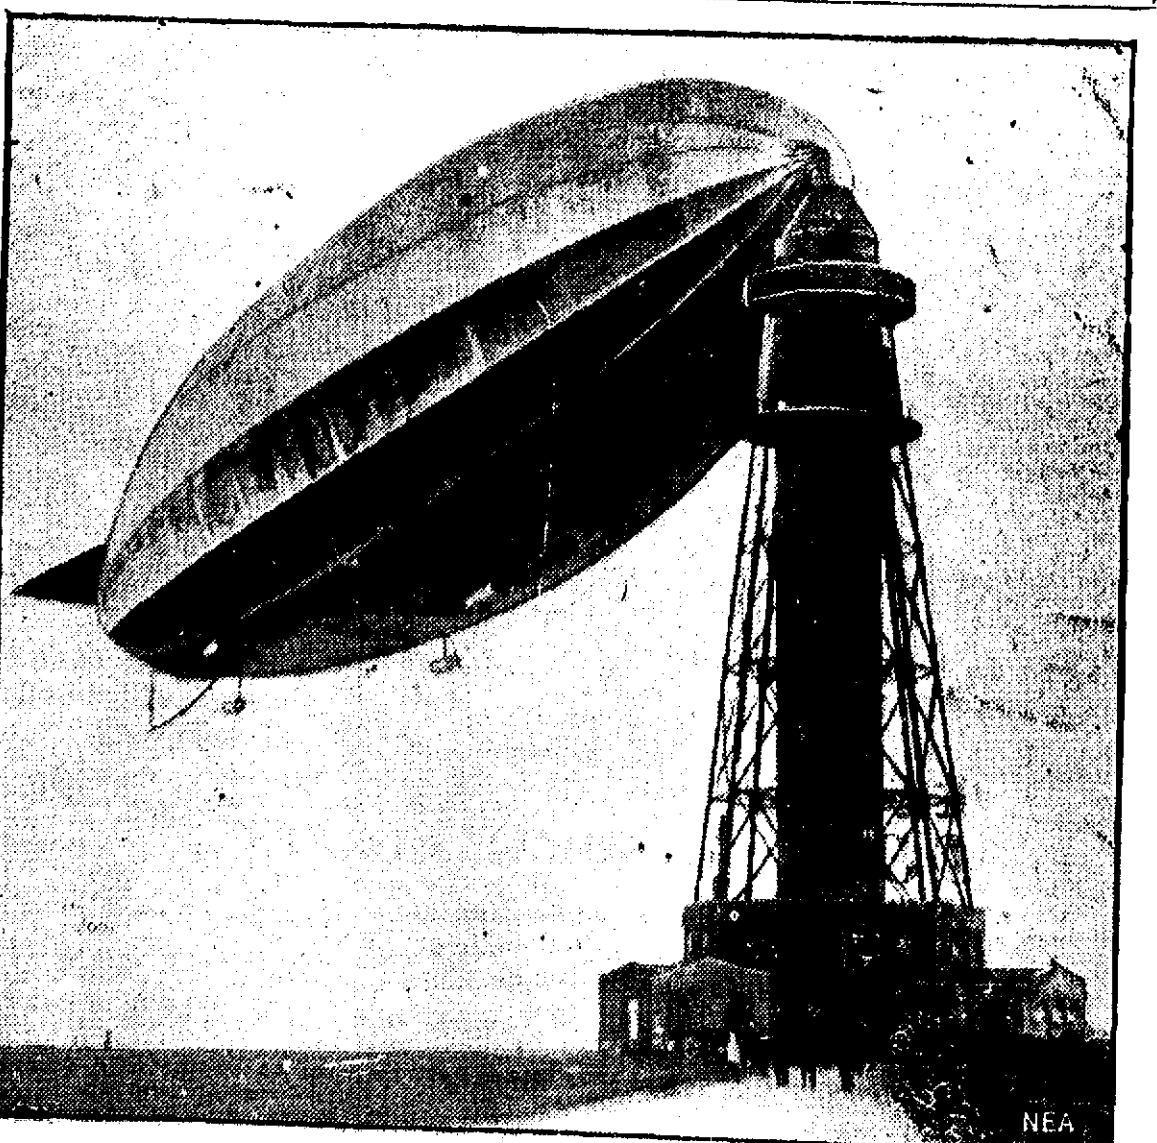

For nearly 4000 feet Weaver worked to free himself from the cockpit, finally clearing the plane at a scant 1000 feet from the ground. He escaped with minor bruises. The craft was demolished and its heavy engine driven deep into the ground.

Earl's Mother

In Salem, Ore., there is a gray-haired woman who is proud of being the mother of the greatest jockey in the world. She is Mrs. J. C. Sande, above. Her son is the 31-year-old Earl Sande, dean of American riders who has earned more than $70,000 this season by successfully piloting Gallant Fox and other thoroughbreds to many victories. Mrs. Sande once held hopes that her son would become a school teacher. Long ago, however, she decided that the Earl was doing pretty well in the jockey business.

As Britain's Huge R-100 Anchored at Montreal

The giant British dirigible R-100 is shown above in the first picture taken as the airship anchored at St. Hubert airport, Montreal, after a successful crossing of the North Atlantic. This picture was flown from Montreal to New York City in an airplane chartered by this newspaper and NEA Service, and transmitted thence by telephoto wires.

'Tis but a half-hour the poet has sung
Of the house by the side of the way;
Our Master had neither a house nor a home,
But he walked with the crowd day by day,
And we think when we read of the poet's desire;
That a house by the road would be good
But service is found in the tenderest form
When we walk with the crowd in the road.
There are wounds to heal, there are breaks to mend,
There's the cup of cold water to give.
And the man in the road by the side of his friend
Is the man who has learned how to live.—Selected.

"The Bad One" Now Showing at Saenger

Perhaps no other film document of recent years is so abundantly supplied with sheer entertainment value as "The Bad One," the United Artists all-talking and singing comedy-drama of the French waterfront cafes starring Dolores Del Rio, with Edmund Lowe at the Saenger theatre now.

Starting with the noisy Marseilles face scene, with a mechanical piano raising its cracked voice above the shout of men for wine, and more wine, the dancing and singing women and the busy activity of commission girls doing out drinks to sailors on carnival, the picture affords the star her greatest opportunity to date.

With Edmund Lowe appearing with her for the first time since the pair made their memorable appearance in "What Price Glory," Miss Del Rio as "Lita" in "The Bad One" is strongly reminiscent of "Charminne" in the war story.

Her character is that of a girl thrust by circumstance into a typical seaport cafe, whose living depends on the exploitation of her charms, the timey winking of her eyes and her industry in refilling empty glasses.

In this role the star is obliged to exercise the full emotional range; from coquetry to comedy and from wistful moodiness to tragedy when one of her innocent flirtations sets in full motion the machinery of love. "The Bad One" demonstrates Miss Del Rio's aptitude for melodramatic action as well as characterization in voice.

Though this is her first appearance on the talking screen, the star, who portrays a Spanish entertainer set loose in cosmopolitan Marseilles, impresses her voice with slandings and phrases that are delightful in opposition to the masculine gruffness of the wise-cracking American sailor played by Lowe.

Because of its sheer humor and aggressive drama, George Fitzmaurice, director, has to his credit a picture that deserves a high place in any list of film plays judged primarily on their entertainment value alone. "The Bad One" is rollicking fun, set in a melodramatic background that correctly mirrors the Marseilles waterfront, with its primal passions, its strifes and gayeties.

MAN, 68, ILL 10 YEARS; KONJOLA BRINGS HEALTH

St. Louis Resident, Freed From Trouble, Praises The New and Different Medicine.

MR. CHARLES E. DOHRMAN
Tens of thousands have said: "Konjola is the only medicine that helped me; Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place." That is why Konjola is a household word in tens of thousands of American homes. Read, now, the words of Mr. Charles E. Dohrman, 68, of 3431 Park avenue, St. Louis, who says: "I want to tell every one that Konjola is the only medicine that helped me. For twenty years I worked at painting, but had to give it up. I had stomach trouble; was nervous and could not sleep, and was bothered with constipation. I took eight bottles of Konjola, and I sleep better and feel better in every way. My nerves are quiet and constipation ended. Konjola certainly does all that is claimed for it."
The files of Konjola fairly overflow with such endorsements; such proofs of Konjola's merit when given a fair trial.
Konjola is sold in Hope, Ark., at Briant's Drug Store, and by all best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

Repairs Rushed on Dirigible R-100

Large Crowd Watch as Workmen Patch Fin Torn on Trip

ST. HUBERT, Que., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Two hundred feet above St. Hubert airport three airship riggers raced against time today to complete repairs to the stabilizing fin of the British dirigible R-100.

While a stiff wind pulled and tore at the linen they held, and a large crowd watched below, the three men faced a large patch over the hole torn in the fabric of the fin near Father Point, Quebec, while the ship was flying from Cardington, England, last Thursday.

Ordinarily every available rigger on the ship would have been at work today, but since the patch was on the stabilizing fin no more than three could work at the same time.

How long it will take to complete the repairs was problematical. The time originally was set at three days, but unusually fast work on preparing the patch was expected to shorten this time.

The reason for the haste was the desire of the commander that the giant dirigible make three trips scheduled for it in Canada, Ottawa, Toronto and Quebec.

Coolidge Will Be Guest Of Legion

Modern Styling and Fast Colors Feature Inexpensive Scatter Rugs

Small Rugs in Good Taste Await the Home Maker of Modest Means

By Virginia Smith

IN hotels, clubs, and office buildings, as well as in elaborate homes, one still finds carpeting used to cover entire floors. In the average American home, however, carpeting is dispensed with in most rooms.

Two reasons have been given for the passing of carpets. One is that they were difficult to keep clean and sanitary without efficient servants. The second is that carpeting involved considerable expense in recutting and refitting when the family moved from one house to another. With the improvement in domestic architecture in the last twenty years there came a definite fashion for uncarpeted hardwood or painted floors with small

It is now possible to buy inexpensive rugs of interesting design and color that are just as effective in the modern scheme of furnishing as those which cost a young fortune. Those shown here are typical of the new colorfast cotton chenilles which have amazed interior decorators because of their ability to withstand frequent laundering without loss of color or shape.

Cheap Rugs Were Shunned

Many a woman who would have loved to take up her old carpets shrank from doing so because she could not afford expensive rugs, and would not have dared to substitute cheap and inartistic scatter rugs. The homemaker with a modest budget but an eye for beauty could find but an attractive rug within her means when carpeting, featuring cabage roses and startled deer, passed out with marble top dressers and horsehair sofas.

Gradually there came improvement in inexpensive scatter rugs, but it has been only quite recently that we have been made pleasantly aware that some of them now feature design and color that will please the most exacting buyers and home furnishers. As a matter of fact, the improvement in moderate priced scatter rugs has been so marked that many who can afford luxurious Orientals have been attracted by the new designs, particularly those in cotton chenille which are guaranteed to be washable and color fast.

Let no one dissuade you from buying expensive rugs if you can afford them. However, we need no longer feel that Orientals are good and desirable merely because they are costly.

here. "The acceptance of the former president, the only living ex-president of the United States, and the opportunity this will give the Legion to pay its respects and greetings to him, is particularly pleasing," the national commander said. Coolidge is a resident of Massachusetts, the host department for the convention.

It was recalled that Coolidge, then president, was a guest of the Legion at its seventh national convention held in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1925, and in an address to the convention at that time spoke in favor of the principle of universal service in time of war, which the Legion this year succeeded in having officially recognized by resolution adopted by Congress and signed by President Hoover.

said contritely, "I'm sorry. And..."

"I hope you won't mind," Anne said. The dark eyes were level and almost eager, but bluish spots flamed in her cheeks.

Dan said again, "I'm sorry, Anne. I'll remember."

He added that he hoped he hadn't made her change her mind about riding with him in the morning. "You can at least trust me in the day time," he said with a lame little laugh.

Anne's faint smile heartened him. "You said you'd remember," she said, "and you're a man of your word. . . . Good night."

he found Johnny Riddle, sitting alone over coffee, and a sandwich. Jolinsky said, "Hello, stranger. Who was the lady I saw you with the other night? That wasn't no lady—that was my girl." "What?" said Dan. "And what did you do with the little O'Neill girl—little Millie?" Dan said, studying his menu: "Millie's a blond."

"Not a real one; Millie bleached her hair because it photographs better."

"Are there any real blonds?" Dan asked, his eyes still on the card.

"What a cynical young man you turned out to be! Why, of course! See the lady over there, for instance? Over there to your left in the corner. There's a blond—and how! That's Sylvia Patterson."

He was awaking around in his chair

"So that's Sylvia," he said. "Is that hair real?"

"Absolutely. Of course, she probably sees to it that it doesn't get any darker."

"That man with her," Dan said with sudden interest; "is that Garry Sloan?"

"That's Garry."

When the waitress departed with Horner's order Johnny Riddle leaned across the table to say that he had heard Sloan's wife was divorcing him.

"Can't say that I blame her," Dan remarked, "if some of the tales about Sloan are true. What's he going to do—marry Sylvia Patterson?"

Johnny Riddle shrugged.

"Is Sloan in love with her?" Dan asked.

Riddle said, "Sloan's in love with himself, and that's why he expects every woman he meets to be crazy about him. . . . But he's one swell director!"

"Is Sylvia crazy about him?" Dan pursued; and Piddle said he didn't think so. "Sylvia's a swell girl," Dan; but Sylvia is ambitious—she can be dermatologist.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

What Next?
It isn't one darn thing it's another for Primo Carnera. Pushovers, suspensions, purses withheld, and now it's the Italian dictator, Premier Mussolini, who requests that the Big Blimp come home and learn how to throw a cannonball or carry a six-inch gun up a mountainside.

Just between you and me, Il Duce, is laying himself open to a lot of grief. Italy's military budget will need a substantial increase to outfit the Primo. Think of the tenting it will take to provide him with a uniform—and the boots for those huge gondolas.

Mussolini's order for Carnera to report for military service at once has all the earmarks of a bluff. The Black Shirts never have felt friendly toward the Big Blimp since he became famous—or notorious. It was as a kick in the pants when Primo applied for French citizenship. And when authorities of Saint Germain-en-Laye announced that Primo had been accepted as a full-fledged French citizen, the wrath of the Black Shirts knew no bounds. Italy does not recognize Carnera's naturalization by France.

All for a Job
They say that Carnera never really showed any lack of patriotism as an Italian. It was on his father's suggestion that Primo foraged across the frontier into France in search of food, shoes and a job. Later, there must have been a slump in the French market, for unemployment became serious and foreign labor was dismissed and deported. To save his job, Carnera took out naturalization papers and remained unmolested, but often hungry.

I'm wondering what would happen should France at this time offer the huge fellow to report for French military service. It might start another world conflict. Of course, he's plenty big enough to divide up and give each country a large-sized share—but there after Primo would be utterly ruined for exhibition purposes. Perhaps Carnera could affect a compromise between the two nations, working out in one service for a week and then reporting for the next week at the other country.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

HENRY JOHNSON, Yankee pitcher, is regarded as the highest pitcher in big league baseball today and Sam Byrd, the outfielder, turned down an offer to become a golf pro so he could continue in baseball. From second base, Charlie Grimm dashed to third and rounded it toward home. He slowed down considerably as Al Lopez, Robins' catcher, stood near the plate, hands on hips and gazing nonchalantly at nothing in particular. . . . but imagine Charlie's embarrassment when Lopez suddenly dropped his pose, took the throw from the outfield and applied the ball vigorously to Grimm's ribs. . . . There are quite a few of the boys who say that a featherweight named Kid Chocolate, who isn't even king of his own division, will swipe Singer's lightweight crown any time they come together. Singer might have been thinking the same when he agreed on meeting Kid Berg ahead of the Havana Kead.

try's camp. The training grounds of both Italy and France are located in the Alps, so all Primo would have to do would be to step across a couple of mountain peaks and he'd be there, ready for warfare or kitchen duty.

French Exclusive
I AM inclined to think, however, that Primo won't be getting any calls to military service from the French. They're a bit more particular than our American boxing commissions. They figure that a soldier must be something more than big and formidable looking. Mussolini, however, is a good deal like our boxing commissions—both have a finger in practically everything. His call to Primo this time was very insistent. The Carnera chiseler got a six-months stay after Mussolini first subpoenaed him. The second call said, "Jam—and on the double quick."

Commission To Probe McNeil Train Crash

PINE BLUFF, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Officials of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway company announced at division headquarters here Monday that an investigation into the collision of two freight trains near McNeil, Ark., Saturday in which eight persons were killed, would be conducted by interstate commerce commission officials, probably the latter part of this week.

Gangster Leads Police to Body of Slain Wife

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Tony Colletto, 21, alleged gangster, Monday was held by police here charged with the murder of his bride, Christina Colletto, 18, last Saturday. Colletto confessed, according to police, after a very short questioning, and after signing a written statement, accompanied detectives to the spot where the murdered girl's body had been found. He then re-enacted the crime.

For Secretary of State

CHARLES M. SPRAGGINS
Charles M. Spraggins, candidate for Secretary of State, is a native of Arkansas, having been born and reared in Clay county, and has lived his entire life in Arkansas. He is a descendant of one of the earlier pioneer families of the State. He was twice elected and served his native County four years as Circuit Court clerk, filling the office with credit to himself and with satisfaction to all, voluntarily retiring from public office to engage in a business career. Two years ago he ran for Secretary of State and made a creditable race. He is a self-made man, respected throughout the State for his honesty and integrity, and is well qualified for the high office to which he aspires. His friends in the State feel a great interest in him and believe that if he is elected he will make a public official of whom we will all feel proud. He has a fine record as a public official and successful business man and the solid endorsement of his home people. It is being freely predicted that Charles M. Spraggins will have the distinction of being the first citizen of his county to hold a State office. Piggott Banner.

Fate of Mooney and Billings Rests With This Court

Eyes of the world are focused on these seven justices of the California supreme court in whose hands rests the fate of Warren K. Billings, labor leader, who with Tom Mooney, is serving a prison sentence for the 1926 Preparedness Day bombings. John McDonald, key witness in the case, appeared before the court and declared that his testimony that convicted the men was "a pack of lies." Although the justices are considering a pardon for Billings only, their decision is expected to influence Governor C. C. Young regarding freedom for Mooney as well. Left to right, the picture shows: Justices John W. Preston, John W. Shenk, Emmet Swallow, Chief Justice William H. Waste and Justices John E. Richards, Jesse W. Curtis and William H. Langdon.

Oregon's Last Wild Horse Drive

Round Up Scattered Bands of Mustangs for Meat Packers

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Oregon's last drive of wild horses, destined to take their place in sausages or on the dinner plates of gourmet in sundry parts of the world, has just taken place over the prairies and plains and high desert country of eastern Oregon.

For the past several weeks the hardiest cowboys of Oregon and some from Idaho and Wyoming have been riding the ranges of Harney and Malheur counties gathering up horses that have never been corralled and many of which have never before seen a human being.

George F. Cockley, meat packer of San Jose, California, has been in Union and Bend preparing for loading and shipment of 25 carloads of horses to his California packing plant.

About 600 head of wild horses were trailed over the plateau in what is believed will be the last drive of these animals in this state. The wild horse probably never will be extinct in the Oregon country but their numbers will be so reduced that it would not be profitable to hold a roundup and ship them any distance.

In Oregon where the wild horses grow, horse steak is not fancied, says Cockley, but in California it is considered as good as beef and in many parts of the world, horse meat is eaten with considerable gusto by exacting gourmets with jaded appetites.

Ponies make the finest steak and are in greatest demand, he says. Horse meat of the better grade retails at a much lower price than beef. It is sold under its own name.

and is used as well in sausage and other prepared meats, always identified. The horses are carefully inspected by federal agents before they are slaughtered. The culs of the range are used for fish food and are not offered for human consumption, according to Cockley.

Humane societies object to the slaughter of wild horses for eating purposes, but ranchers and farmers in the more remote sections of Oregon are glad to rid the nearby ranges of the wild horse which often becomes a nuisance and a pest.

Ford Adds Horse To Collection

Sells Relic of Saddle and Harness Ship Days to Collector

MARYSVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Henry Ford's penchant for things primitive and E. H. Creviston's "yen" for salesmanship combined to place another exhibit in the well-stocked Ford museum at Dearborn.

Aware that the old horse who used to gaze through the display windows of the harness shop is now as rare as the eagle store Indian, Creviston became convinced Ford should preserve this remnant of another era for posterity.

A canvas of Marysville's saddlery stores revealed one survivor who had gazed upon the town's passersby for more than 40 years. Creviston promptly "unhitched" the animal and "stabled" it in his own back yard until he could secure a purchaser.

Museum officials were skeptical of Creviston's offer, suspecting the steed was a saw-horse, and demanded a picture. Supplied pictures erased all suspicions and the horse was ordered on its last journey.

Cambridge Puts Limit On Cars

More Regulations Voted By Officials To Reduce Accidents

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., Aug. 5.—(UP)—New regulations passed with regard to the use of motor vehicles by Cambridge undergraduates in residence are causing considerable comment by Cambridge down on summer vacations.

Six Colleges—Downing, Peterhouse, Pembroke, Caius, Clara and Trinity—have taken independent action in the matter of students using automobiles and motorcycles.

At the present time a first year student, commonly termed on the Cambridge Varsity as a "beginning bloke," is not allowed to use an automobile or motorcycle while in residence. When the student assumes the rank of a second year student he may operate a "grids," slang for automobile, with special permission by his college, head tutor and by paying 10 shillings, $2.40, each term.

There are three terms during the Cambridge university year. Students are also required to have special lights on their "grids," so protectors and tutors will recognize undergraduate machines and drivers.

The new regulations, which will go into operation next October, it is understood, have resulted from the large number of fatal road accidents last term in which undergraduates were involved.

The following circular has been drawn up by the Clare College:

"The tutor wishes to inform parents and guardians that, believing that the possession of motor-cars and motor-bicycles by undergraduates nearly always prevents them from making the best use of their residence in Cambridge, the College has adopted the following new regulations with regard to motor vehicles:

"1. The present university restriction with regard to the use of motor vehicles by freshmen shall during the next year apply to second year men also.

"2. After June, 1931, these restrictions shall apply to all undergraduates of the college.

"3. During the next year there shall be no late leave for motor vehicles beyond the normal hours—that is, 8:30 p. m. in the Michaelmas and Lent terms and 10 p. m. in the Easter term."

Cat Makes Way Home After 130 Mile Trip

COVENTRY, Eng., Aug. 5.—(UP)—A cat that was lost on route to Bridgewater, 130 miles from Coventry, was found eight weeks later trying to gain admission to its old home here.

Hard Luck Boy

GOVERNOR, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Over a period of about a year, here is what has happened to 10-year-old Leland Luenberger: Severely cut on his knee playing football, forced to remain in hospital for two weeks; injured in automobile accident and returned to bed, was forced back to bed with measles while suffering from the disease he contracted the mumps and scarlet fever, recovered and incurred bad cut on his foot while on vacation. Now he is confined to an easy chair until that wound heals.

ST. GALL, Switzerland, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Monsignor Sebastian Messner, Roman Catholic archbishop of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, died at Goldach, Sunday night, at 83.

Joyous Foot Bath Then Lift Out CORNS

Two infidelities of that amazingly refreshing and invigorating Radox to one gallon of water makes a footbath which after 3 or 4 night's soaking lifts out aching, maddening corns, callouses, too-root and all.

Root and All—Out to Stay

Radox softens the hard outer layers of corns and callouses which Radox liberates, enters the pores, each night penetrating further and further, carrying the salts right to root of corn which can be lifted out bodily.

Wonderful to take out pain and burning and refresh tired feet!

Get a package of Radox at Ward & Son or Briant's Drug Store, or any drug store and know the joyous comfort of corn and callous free feet—Radox is the modern, scientific method to remove corns which completely eliminates old fashioned plasters, dangerous cutting, skin destroying agents and obsolete methods.

Rail Man Says Profit of $3.98 Not Quite Enough

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5.—(UP)—An annual revenue of $3.98 doesn't seem enough to justify operation of a steam railroad passenger service. F. C. McKee, president of the Winfield Railroad company, told a public service examiner.

The railroad earned $3.98 in 1929, he testified, in asking permission to discontinue service over the 12-mile route from West Winfield to Butler Junction. Competition of bus lines has cut the revenue from $2.191 in 1926. Decision in the case was reserved.

Marathon Golf

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Ray Koenig, local hardware dealer, sought to convince a friend that 120 holes of golf could be played during the time between dawn and dusk. So he set out at 5:15 a. m. and when he returned at 7:30 p. m., he had completed 126 holes. He lost six pounds as a result. Koenig thinks little of playing 54 and 72 holes a day.

Gift Gun Fired

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Thirty five years ago, before the Sullivan act became law, the late Chief of Police Joseph Cleary, presented Mrs. Eva Garrett, 70, with a revolver. Recently Mrs. Garrett fired the gun to frighten away two men, she told police, who arrested on a charge of unlawful possession of firearms. She was released immediately on her own recognizance.

Women's Air Test

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Plans for a free-for-all non-refueling endurance contest, to be participated in by women fliers, are being made by the aircraft show committee of the Mid-South fair here. The program will occur September 20-27, and it is hoped that women pilots may be secured from the National Air Races at Chicago to take part in the undertaking.
